The ancient provinces of France are named on the map. The figures in the above table indicate the departments and correspond with the figures on the map.

The ancient kingdoms and modern provinces of Spain are shown on the map. The names of the latter are the same as their respective capitals, except the three Basque provinces Alava Biscay and Guipuzcoa the capitals of which are respectively Vitoria, Bilbao and Tolosa.

The capitals of the departments of France and the provinces of Spain and Portugal are represented thus: c

PRESIDIOS
The Spanish Presidios in Morocco, Ceuta, Penon de Velez, Alhucenas, and Melilla are used chiefly as places of banishment for criminals. The Presidios have belonged to Spain since the year 1580.

14. POPULATION IN 1860 OF THE CAPITALS OF THE STATES AND THE PRINCIPAL CITIES AND TOWNS THAT CONTAIN UPWARDS OF 5,000 INHABITANTS.

In the official Census Tables most of the populations of the Southern States and several of the Western States are given only by counties, so that it is impossible to give the populations of all the towns from that authority. It is, however, believed that all, or nearly all, in those States so enumerated that contained in 1860 over 5,000 are given in this table.
